

The King Wants Quiet

The king wants a quiet, tranquil place to swim. He went to a pond.

A flock of ducks were singing and splashing. They toss rings and hit balls with square rackets.

"Quack, quack, quack" they sing. They are quite happy.

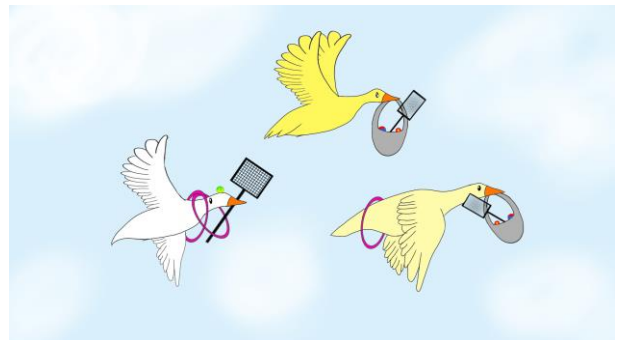

But the king tells them to quit. "I require quiet quality time," he commands.

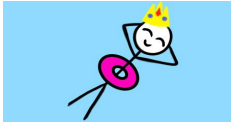

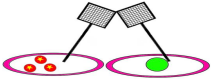

Quickly the ducks listen to his request.

The flock of ducks pack up their big quantity of equipment—all the rings and balls and rackets. They fly quickly up into the sky.

QU Card Flip

Supplies:

- qu card
- Question Cards (to be read by Tutor)
- Cards with "Word Parts"

qu words: quite, tranquil, quack, quit, require, request, quickly, equipment, quality, quantity, square

This game can be modified for learners who may have difficulties with working memory.

1. The learner gets a "qu card" turned up.
2. The other remaining "word parts" cards are shuffled and put face up.
3. The learner gets to look at the cards for 30 seconds and then they are turned over. The "qu card" always remains turned up. If the learner has working memory issues, some or all of the cards can remain turned up.
4. The tutor will read with the student a question card. If the learner needs more help to remember the word, then the tutor and student can read the sentence from the story. The tutor can also give additional clues if necessary. We have provided some clues with each question card.
5. After the learner answers the question, she/he tries to remember where the cards are that make up the word. The learner flips over the cards, matches them with the "qu card" to spell the word they need to answer the question.
Example "qu+ick+ly" answers the last question card.
6. These cards can be set aside or added back in, depending on the ability of the student.
7. The game ends when all the questions have been answered.
