

A Worm's Work World

Victor the worm had not had much luck in the world of work.

First, Victor worked in a fruit-packing factory but was fired for eating the fruit instead of packing it.

After that, Victor worked in a silk factory but was fired after munching his way through a roll of silk.

Last month, Victor worked in the local library but was fired after chomping his way through the dictionaries.

Victor's neighbor had a wonderful idea for a new place of work for Victor and today is Victor's first day of work.

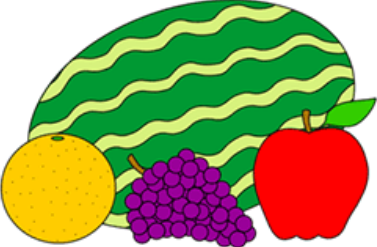

Victor is starting work as a food taster - a perfect job for a very hungry worm!
